The best of clothes will sometimes go wrong; oddly enough that fact booms our business.

For we've long made it a policy to invite complaints; just to be able to get next the complainant by settling the matter in his way—making him the only judge of the merits of his claim.

As a result every old customer knows that if he ever gets stuck on anything he buys here, it's his own fault, because he hasn't let us set it right.

Fall suits and overcoats—new things; no old-timers here.

GUARD AT DONOVAN'S FUNERAL

POLICE FEARED AN OUTBREAK BY THE PAUL KELLYS.

Big Turnout When the Man Shot in the Riot of the Monk Eastmans Was Buried—Magistrate Urges a Severe Punishment for Carrying Revolvers.

Mike Donovan of the Paul Kelly Association, who was killed last Wednesday morning when Lonnie Meyer and others of the Monk Eastman gang shot up Rivington street, was buried yesterday under the protection of Inspector Schmittberger and the reserves of two precincts.

Nearly one hundred members of the Kellys were there, and the police feared that they might take a chance to get even with the Eastmans, the Five Pointers and the Cherry Hill gang, all of whom, the police say, are their sworn enemies.

The funeral took place from the home of Donovan's father at 64 Gouverneur street. Six members of the Paul Kelly Association acted as pallbearers and eighty more marched behind the hearse. All wore blue ribbon badges bearing a picture of Kelly, and walked with their hands off.

They had made a lot of black leather badges with the inscription "We Mourn Our Loss" in silver letters, but these disappeared in Inspector Schmittberger's raid on the Kellys' rooms at 24 Stanton street, on Saturday night.

When the funeral started there were fully two thousand people in the street, but Capt. Hodgins of the Madison street station and Capt. O'Connor of Delancey street had fifty cops and a score of plain clothes men scattered through the crowd and if there were any of the Kellys' enemies about they kept mighty quiet.

The procession after circling the block moved down to the Grand street ferry, where the marchers got into some of the twenty-one coaches and rode peacefully to Calvary cemetery. The flowers filled an open barouche.

Two big policemen marching beside the carriage were the cause of a rumor that Piggy Donovan, the Bowery saloonkeeper who once shot Monk Eastman, was inside and was being protected. Piggy is no relative of the Governor's son, Donovan and wasn't at the funeral.

It's the parts you don't see that hold shape in tailoring. We don't build puffed wares here. We'll tailor your suit just as conscientiously—just as carefully—just as honestly as though you were standing by the bench while these master craftsmen of our work away on your order. In no other makery in the land is the satisfaction of the customer so safeguarded in so many ways. English woollens made up by the finest tailors in New York—and the suit must fit you or it must stay ours—for $20.

Samples, measuring outfit and fashion plates mailed free.

AUTO GROUND BETWEEN CARS

DR. LAWRENCE AND HIS BROTHER HAVE A NARROW ESCAPE.

Got Out of the Way of One Trolley Car and Ran Plunged Into Another on the Narrow West Farms Road—The Doctor's Presence of Mind Prevents Explosion.

A $1,000 automobile owned by Dr. Frederick E. Lawrence of Main street, City Island, was reduced to scraps, and he and his brother, Ray C. Lawrence, a Hell Gate pilot, nearly lost their lives in a smash-up yesterday afternoon on the West Farms road just back of the West Chester police station. The machine was caught between two trolley cars, coming from opposite directions, and ground to pieces.

The two men were buried under the debris, but luckily the gasoline burning machine didn't explode, and the first thing Dr. Lawrence did when he was hauled out was to go down on his hands and knees among the wreckage and find the safety valve. In this way he averted further danger.

Dr. Lawrence was going north on the West Farms road, using the trolley track. Right behind was a car, with the motor man banging away on his horn. On the southbound track a top-heavy trolley coach, crowded with people, was coming from the opposite direction. Behind it was another trolley car, which Dr. Lawrence could not see. The road at that point is so narrow that there is no room for vehicles except on the car tracks.

The moment the auto had passed the coach Dr. Lawrence turned his machine sharply to the left. Not until then did he see the other car, and his machine ran straight into it with a force that sent it bounding back like a rubber ball. It was thrown back in front of the northbound car and caught between the two. Before they could be brought to a standstill the machine was in pieces.

The two trolley cars were crowded and the shock of the bump threw the passengers into a panic, which was added to by a cry of "She's going to blow up."

The noise of the collision and the screams of the women were heard in the police station and Sgt. Taitan hurried over every man he had in the place. They found Dr. Lawrence and his brother lying in the wreckage helpless and apparently dead. After some hard work the two men were lifted out.

Dr. Lawrence was conscious and able to get to his feet at once. He had only received a few slight bruises, but his clothes were almost torn from his body. Ray C. Lawrence was unconscious. He had received a serious scalp wound and some head contusions. The policemen carried him into the station, where he soon revived.

The doctor would not let an ambulance be called, but sent for a carriage, which took him and his brother to their City Island home.

Men's Fall Suits Made to Order

Typewriters Wanamaker-Wellington

Hittie Magin is an appropriate name for the operator of a Wanamaker-Wellington typewriting machine. It will stand more hard blows without flinching than any competing machine.

In all points the Wanamaker-Wellington is the equal of any other best machine. In ten points it is the universal superior.

First—Visibility. Work always in sight.

Second—Accuracy of alignment.

Third—Cleanliness. Easily kept clean.

Fourth—Superior Manifolding.

Fifth—Simplicity. Half the usual number of parts.

Sixth—Portability. Weighs twenty pounds.

Seventh—Strength. Built for hard work.

Eighth—Compact Keyboard. Twenty-eight keys, eighty-four characters.

Ninth—Ribbon Adjustments. Simple, effective.

Tenth—Corrections are especially easy.

An average operator can learn its use in half an hour.

Price, $60

No favors asked for this machine.

It wins upon simple justice.

What Are Your Shoe Needs?

This September Sale brings the economy-time that those with families to provide shoes for, will not allow to pass by unnoticed. We have gathered many thousands of pairs of excellent shoes for men, women and children, where trade conditions produced decisive price-advantages on thoroughly good shoes.

We vouch for every pair of shoes we sell, whether at regular price, or special. There is no risk about WANAMAKER Shoe economies.

Just received and shown for the first time today, are about two thousand pairs of Women's Shoes—the entire remaining quantity owned by a New York factory closing that branch of their business. Made to sell at $2 to $3; now divided in three lots:

$2 Shoes at $1 a Pair—Black kidkin Boots, with round toes and tips of kid.

$2.50 Shoes at $1.50 a Pair—Handsome styles, in durable leathers.

$3 Shoes at $1.90 a Pair—Conceded to be the best wearing Shoes made in New York. Swell styles, too.

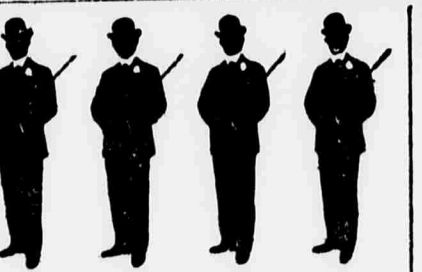

Some further additions today:—

Boys' $2 Shoes at $1—Sturdy grain and satin calf, with heels; comfortable round toe-lasts with tips; mostly large sizes, 3 to 5 1/2, and just right for school.

Children's Shoes with Spring Heels, at 75c and $1, worth $1.25 to $2—Sturdy black kid and calf Shoes in good, comfortable shapes, and of solid leather throughout; sizes 5 to 10 1/2; at 75c; 11 to 12, at $1.

Women's Patent Leather Shoes at $1.90—Button and lace, with dull kid tops; made on arch last, with Cuban heels.

Basement.

No fit, no pay, is a pretty good way.

If a man doubts our ability to make good suits and overcoats at $20 he takes no risk in placing a trial order.

Fall styles ready.

FIRE THREATENS OIL PLANT.

An Eagle Oil Works Building Burns—Employees De Good Work.

A brick building which was formerly used as a paraffine plant by the Standard Oil Company at the Eagle Oil Works at Cavan Point was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The plant was closed two months ago and the company intended to convert the structure into a machine and blacksmith shop.

The building stood at the western limit of the Eagle works property, which consists of more than a hundred oil tanks and brick buildings on the shore of New York Bay.

The fire, which was of mysterious origin, started in the cellar. The interior woodwork was saturated with paraffine and the flames spread rapidly. The big whistle at the oil works gave the alarm and twenty-five employees of the oil works turned firemen. Long before the Jersey City department arrived they had twenty or thirty streams of water from the company's hydrants playing on the flames.

A strong wind blowing from the bay drove the flames inland. Had the wind been from the opposite direction the fire would have been swept into a big ammonia plant, fifty feet east of the burning building. All hands agreed that the entire oil works property would probably have been wiped out had the ammonia plant ignited.

TOUGHS DO UP A POLICEMAN.

Pierce Hit in the Head With a Cobblestone and Badly Hurt.

William Pierce, a policeman attached to the East 104th street station, was set upon by a gang of toughs early yesterday at 104th street and Second avenue and badly beaten. He is in the Harlem Hospital in a serious condition.

Pierce was trying to drive the gang from a corner when one of them hit him with a cobblestone on the back of the head.

Pierce dropped to the pavement, but managed to draw his revolver and fire several shots. The toughs jumped on him, took his club and began pounding him with it. They took his revolver, too, and left him lying on the sidewalk unconscious. He was found later by three policemen, who had heard the shots.

Pierce gave Capt. Herlihy a description of his assailants, and Arthur Kyriz of 162 Park avenue, whom Pierce identified as one of the men, was arrested. Kyriz had a bad scalp wound.

$100 BILLS LOST AND FOUND.

They Went From Waste Basket to Junk Shop, but Were Recovered.

Two yellow-back $100 bills were lost and recovered last week in a remarkable manner by the Joseph M. Byrne company of Newark. A German woman applied to John Murray, a clerk in the fire insurance department, and, handing him an envelope, asked him to transfer her insurance policy. He removed the policy, crumpled up the envelope and threw it into a waste basket.

Next morning the woman returned and accused Murray of stealing $200, which was in the envelope with the policy. Meanwhile the waste basket had been emptied and all of the papers from the Globe building had been carried away in bags by an Italian, whose identity was unknown. The janitor thought that the Italian disposed of the paper to a junk dealer in Academy street, and upon this meagre information he and Murray went to the shop and met the Italian upon his arrival with a wagon load of papers collected from scores of offices in the city.

The bags were examined until matter from the Globe building was found, and a search of five minutes brought the missing envelope to light. The two "centuries" were found in it and were returned to the owner, who made profuse apologies to Murray for suspecting him.
